IOM: More than just getting OFWs out of harm's way

By Valt Coenraets

BEYOND THE SCENARIOS at the airport or the humanitarian squabbles that have marred the Philippine evacuation from Lebanon is a study, experienced based that, over the last half-century has helped get migrants out of "somebody else's mess."

As of yesterday, 3,540 overseas Filipino workers had been bused out of Beirut in Lebanon, Syria, and then down to Manila courtesy of the International Organization for Migration (IOM), of which the Philippines is a member.

That's nearly more than half of the approximately 5,000 OFWs so far reported out, the rest of whom had their transport expenses shouldered by the Philippine government.

Pilgrims have also made up about a quarter of the total number of foreign workers who have left Lebanon with IOM assistance since the conflict began a month ago. The group has spent $13 million helping 15 countries get their citizens out.

But IOM's work in the Philippines in the last 25 years has certainly been more than just getting OFWs out of harm's way.

From giving orientations to job-seekers abroad, to training immigrants systems, to helping policymakers find the best ways to use dollar remittances for nation-building, IOM has been an engaged witness to the Filipinos' increasing dependence on OFWs.

For now, however, the country has been counting on it to save Filipino lives on the other side of the globe.

Eggie Apostol: Lifetime lamplighter

By Juan Pafico Vigilar

EVEN BEFORE THE PHILIPPINES would have its first woman president, another woman was helping pave the way for it to happen through the weekly magazine she founded and edited.

At a time when it was rare for the media to have so much of a woman's political voice as the strongest, roaring against dictator, Ferdinand Marcos, Apostol chose to summarize a people's warlike path.

It was her magazine Mt. Apo, not any of the daily broadsheets owned by Ferdinand Marcos' authoritarian regime, that gave the young, rising feminist journalist a chance to express her views in 1983 to the national significance it deserved.

Thousands of Filipinos from all walks of life, led by the women who would be president, attended what was the biggest demonstration against Marcos. The houses of shared grief, life & Ms. signaled that the time was ripe to openly and jointly cry out in protest.

The public faith in her information was so great that all copies of the magazine's special issue on the funeral sold out. It promptly spun off into a separate weekly that later would reach a circulation of half a million copies, unsurpassed by any publication.

Five months into his new life as an immigrant, Jim Paredes is slowly becoming the face of a new set of overseas Filipinos, one of the many disillusioned and angry who left the country in search of kinder, gentler pastures.

It wasn't as bad as I thought it would be," Paredes told the Express in an interview. "I'm happy I landed, no regrets."

He inspired young men and women to stay in the country and fight the Marcos regime when it was not habitable to do so. Today, he urges Filipinos to believe their dreams, even if it means leaving the country for a better life.

Existing Poro Point contract valid, says Abaya

By David L. Lopez

THE REAGAN-BUSCH CONVENTION Development Authority has reaffirmed that the contract between the government and the private operator of the Poro Point casino in San Roque City in La Union was legal and binding despite union attempts to cancel it.

But DENR president and CGO Mariano C. Abaya said the Poro Point Industrial Zone (PPIZ) was also in violation of the country's environmental laws, which he said he has filed for enforcement with the government of the PRC's Poro Point agency.

Abaya said he has also filed a suit to void the contract with the PRC's Poro Point agency.

Abaya said a DENR representative from the Poro Point Management Group (PPMG), wanted the contract with the PRC, which was approved by the DENR, to be null and void.

'Dream weavers' spread B'laan culture

By Aquilino C. Zende
Malapetan, Zamboanga

FOR THE B'LAAN WOMEN OF Upper Lasing in Malapetan, Sarangani, mat weaving is a product of both traditional belief and art.

Weaving, in these cultures, is an expression of the women's relationship with their god (Iwato). Each mat has a unique design inspired by divine guidance, as well as their dreams and creative imagination. Hence, the women are popularly called the "dream weavers."

When he assumed his post in 2004, Gov. Miguel Tanataro initiated a program to help uplift the living conditions of indigenous people (IGs) and to preserve their beliefs, customs and traditions. He created the Indigenous People's Development Program (IPDP) to look after the welfare of the IGs and the uphold of living traditions (IGTL).

In present, Sarangani has three IGs, which were not only in knowledge centers but also in talent areas in indigenous arts, products, designs and crafts. They are found in the village of Upper Lasing, Lantawan in Malapetan town, and Maligang in Gantao town.

The school in Upper Lasing focuses on preserving the B'laan art of mat weaving. IG Lantawan features "tali" or the B'laan art of cloth-making; and the Maligang IG centers on the P'laan art of brass-making.

The IGs are now part of the national curriculum of the province. They receive assistance from the National Commission on Culture and the Arts (NCCA).

Preserved

Through the IPDP, the art of mat weaving in Upper Lasing has been preserved.

Elizabeth Jimeno, program manager, said that last year, the provincial government listed five master weavers—Maria Palawan, 58, and Maribel Tanataro, 55—in their professional weaving.

Now, 18 students are helping the master weavers and propagate the skills.

The weavers specialize on sleeping mats, although the mats have been incorporating them in various items and products.

"Weaving such a mat is a source of joy for our weavers. Even regularly weaving, we help them improve the quality of their products as while weaving they are also creating," Jimeno said.

But now, the dream weavers consider mat weaving a mere leisure, not really a source of livelihood. According to them, mats are only for personal use only.

Sacred

Tanataro, who learned to weave at 25, said the weavers served as oracles both to themselves and to others.

Before making any pattern or design, she used the first thought of her guidance. She believed that the design was inspired by the dreamer through the feeling channel, who were considered pure hearts of nature.

But the dreamer, she said, would not tell what it was the use for it was a private matter between her and the Iwato.

The raw materials and tools used include the leaf or cotton weaving, a loom (tali), dye

If any residents begin planting the leaf and mention when demand for the products is needed.

Before weaving, mats are held in accordance with the B'laan culture, but only the weavers know about them.

The leaves are dried, dyed and woven. For ordinary designs, preparation and weaving could take about one week. But for the intricate ones, the process could take more than a month.

Weavers cannot just work any time. Weaving is usually done in dusk, before bedtime during the rainy season. The leaf leaves are simple and easy to weave during these times, Tanataro said.

Tali, one of the three weaving arts of weaving among the IGs, has been preserved in Lantawan as a result of the immediate intervention of the provincial government.

The province's office, through the IPDP, commissioned two master weavers of the craft to pass on the skills to the young.

Sumaya Venera, 48, one of the two surviving weavers, said there were two complex designs—Tali B'laan and Tali Andan. The latter is more intricate as it consists of more than 100 patterns.

The Lantawan school also incorporated into master livelihood, agriculture and other projects.

Reina Lantao, president of the Lantawan Tribal Women's Association, said her group earned around P41,000 last year from selling native products.

Magsaysay awardee walks with heroes daily

By Dennis Jay C. Santos
Davao City

EVERY DAY, HE WALKS WITH heroes, whom he credits for the phenomenal success of the Gawad Kalinga (GK) Foundation, according to Arnelito Melonio, this year's winner of the Ramon Magsaysay award for community leadership.

"The thing is if you living out the promises to people then everybody you work with knows," Melonio said of the countless "extraordinary people" working tirelessly to make the foundation the leading movement for poverty reduction by building homes for the poor.

Melonio, who was in Davao City on Aug. 15, said he did not expect this award because, "I don't work for it," he said.

He would rather say that he was accepting the award as a result of thousands of volunteers "flipping their own houses and doing good for people who have not stopped helping for the country."

MELONIO

(Dennis Jay C. Santos)

"So me, I have become Gawad Kalinga guy in meeting the house and dignity of the people," he said.

The energy and enthusiasm of the crowd helped volunteers to help a lot of people and to spread the GK message, he said.

Melonio believes in the infinite source of goodness and generosity among the Filipinos "but they just don't know how to unlock it."

Today the GK Foundation has extended its reach, drawing across Philippine and even foreigners to join in their work.

Melonio said the group was now focusing on building at least a million residences in a program dubbed the "GK 100" or Gawad Kalinga 1 Million Beyond Dream.

This will, he said, be a steady stream of Filipinos working and living abroad who have been donating to the foundation.

"There is still so much to be done," he said. "The country's problem is to maximize the human potential of its own citizens."

Turning point

Melonio said the turning point in his life was when he joined the Gospel for Christ movement in 1980.

He was 25 years old then and had decided to show the oppressed world and pursue preaching of ways to help Filipinos without becoming a kind of hero.

Living up in Davao City, Melonio said he was also a product of poverty. His education was on his own.

Although he has reached the highest level of his career in business, Melonio said something was missing in his life, having to mind the countless people who desperately needed some help. "The GK was then born in 1980."

"In me, the greatest treasure is not in the pocket, but in the heart," he said.

Real hope

The GK is selling hope to the people, he said. But this hope can be felt and touched, "and not based on fantasy."

Thousands of families nationwide now have homes, and GK volunteers push in their resources and time to build more homes.

Currently in the pipeline work is the construction of thousands of houses in at least 1,000 locations of distressed lands.

The foundation's grand aim is to have 100,000 houses in 7,000 communities in seven years in the "GK707" program.

"We simply have to make the nation for us in the night," he said, adding that "this is a first time for the Philippines."

Bacolod rips US-East, gains World tilt finals

KIRKLAND, WASHINGTON — TONGUESSED to back-to-back world titles includes the last man, the Philippines' Eduardo Sison, leading team of Bacolod City finally got over the losing propensity with an emphatic 3-0 win over US-East in Washington to reach the Junior League World Series Finals in Kirkland, Washington.

Pinoy Sison, a member of the 1975 squad that "bowed out" in the semi of the past two Little League (11-12) World Series, ended out seven years in a so-called losing way only while Sison's presence came through with four hits, two runs in the third and fifth innings, to power the Bacolodians to the finals in their first try in the Junior League category.

With the triumph, 1975 — the only one-

American team in the final four — earned on the brink of duplicating England's 2000 victory in senior league division that made it the country's first and only World Series title.

But the odds are stacked against the Asian-Pacific champions when they meet reigning title US-East for the title at 4 p.m. Saturday in Kirkland.

The Filipino already lost to the US-East squad, represented by division from Napier, Florida, in their first meeting in third Seattle, 2-0.

US-East swept victories in the games, leading the championship but only the Filipino to the final. The team of 1975, coached by the 1975 coach, 4-0.

Sison, who coaches the 1975 squad with 1975 players and Ligonier, said the Filipino without playing on a different level against US-East, which came into Saturday's game with an unbeaten 10-0 record but lacked a victory against previous US-East opponents.

"They really showed their games a week higher than they surprised even the coaching staff," Sison told the business in a telephone interview.

Sison said they were also motivated by the support of the Filipino community in Kirkland. "The pinoy community was high. We felt like we're the home team here," he added.

But Sison said they are not taking any chances against US-East. "They (US-East) have the size advantage but the pinoy has a lot of know-how in their previous team," he said. Codi R. Phipps, Inquirer Staff Writer

Team Manila lands 5th in Kalamazoo Big League

KALAMAZOO, MICHIGAN — TEAM Manila of the Philippines and Asia Pacific won its last two games Friday (Sunday in Manila) to give the country its third International Trophy in the Big League (11-12) World Series title.

The Filipino outdid St. Louisville of Texas, 4-2, behind the combined four-hitter effort by left pitcher Eduardo Sison and five batters and then came back late in the afternoon to beat Windsor of Ontario, Canada, 4-

6, to finish in fifth place overall. Returning "Chief" Lorenz (pitcher) a one-hit four-inning start and Carillo worked on a tie-off, seven three-inning relief as the girls of head coach Edmundo "Bey" Carillo Jr. ended up with an overall 4-4 record in the eight-team field.

Meanwhile, US East Zone champion Connecticut took the measure of last year Michigan, 1-0, to prevent an all-Michigan final.

Connecticut, Michigan and Louisiana city Kalamazoo usually won't up to a win but after the one round elimination at 7-2, Connecticut and Louisiana, however, came up with the heavy going to be the toughest to beat in their championship duel.

Michigan four-inning start.

Team Manila's fifth place finish was two games better than the third place finish of the 1975 team of 2005 and 2006.

"Well, luck was not with us at the start of the tournament," said Carlos era. "We could have been in the final but we got lost at least three games that ended up close. A fifth place finish is nothing to be ashamed of. Member of the team wants have respect the best in their countries and regions."

AyalaLand CLUSTER

I didn't get to keep the starfish. I didn't keep the sea urchin either.

But I'm keeping the baby. The mother says you can't!

Following the launch of the new cluster, the Ayala Land team is excited to announce the start of the new cluster. The new cluster is a great addition to the Ayala Land portfolio and will provide a new level of service to our guests.

THE FLOOR space in the Crowne Plaza Singapore has extended lounge area for the use of discerning travelers who want more than just efficient service.

Crowne Plaza has reserved two floors for the exclusive use of discerning travelers who want more than just efficient service.

THE CROWN Gold Club Lounge is a standard of service excellence.

COMPLEMENTARY high-speed Internet connection is available in every room.

New club promises royal treatment for 'members'

By Garik B. Balboa

ALL BUSINESS AND EFFICIENCY is good.

But if you are a frequent traveler who spend a large chunk of time in hotel rooms, there comes a time, no doubt, when business-like efficiency begins to pull and you wish for a little more personalized service, a little pampering, as well as access to facilities and amenities you have from home.

At Crowne Plaza Delfino Manila in this city, you can now get that special treatment if you join the "Club."

For an additional charge, you can have your booking upgraded from a regular hotel room to a suite in Crowne Plaza.

The new floor club offers special accommodations for discerning travelers who do not mind paying for the extra services, the more personalized service, and the additional amenities and high-class facilities that help make a stay in a place almost as comfortable and pleasant as being back home.

Crowne Plaza converted floor 19th and 20th into the Crowne Club with rooms and suites ranging from 35 to 52 square meters.

The goal of the service, so to speak, is the Crown Club, which is a place where business travelers can enjoy a more spacious dining and living room, utility-quality linen, two bath rooms with a walk-in closet. The lounge has a full-size kitchen that includes a refrigerator, microwave, and two hot/cold beverage machines—122 apartments.

Benefits of lounge

Every room or suite has its own study, access to gym, both indoor, and three telephone units, among others. You can also have an emergency service, 24-hour, or a 12-hour, but only during the business hours.

Each floor has its own private room, including, on each 24-hour, and the exclusive access of the Club Lounge members, an all-around information resource prepared to handle everything you may require from making dinner reservations to providing business services.

Though the floor has its own business center that provides Wi-Fi Internet access, complimentary high-speed Internet connection is also available in every room.

If you have to hold meetings, you can use the Club Lounge Boardroom for free for two hours, subject to availability of the room, every day except on weekends.

Quick check-in and check-out are offered at the Club Lounge, ensuring no standing in line and waiting. The lounge offers refreshments from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. It also serves complimentary buffet breakfast, afternoon tea and dinner on weekends.

From integrated offers, up to September, you can get an upgrade to the Crowne Club by paying an additional $18.00 or $19.00 per night to the basic room, or more over in the other floors.

A member of the International Hotels Group, Crowne Plaza Delfino Manila is at the corner of EDSA (near the MNL Avenue) and is adjacent to Robinsons Galleria Mall. Call 833-7222 or a local number 833-7222.

Finding love in the classifieds

THE PERSONALIZED PUBLISHING revolution could be off—how they found love, social obstacles, and insecurities of marriage are up in the air.

Sharon Wiley Dobie and Joel Musowitz met when they both worked at the business's Classified Ads.

The reason the additional assistance of two—its Special and Executive Assistant—is in the advertising department. But it was in the Chevrolet Ad section, where they both stated, that they realized that what they had seen "be done."

After nine years, Rufus and Marjorie got married, in the same city the health plan celebrated their 47th wedding anniversary.

It was a joyful and intimate occasion, shared only with relatives and few close friends. The ceremony was held at the House of Marine of the United States with Fr. Louis Lawrence officiating. AAA, Life and News.

Takasi met her five brothers (she's the youngest with a one-year-old in a brown flight) and two uncles (who built the plane of her two departed brothers) on the aisle in the middle of the plane, and she said:

All songs in the ceremony and reception were personally chosen by the bride, most of them from her favorite record albums.

The bride groom is a simple yet elegant gown by John Auld. Her accessories were perfectly-placed gems. Her bouquet of fresh-pink roses was complemented by the colorful roses and gardenia provided by Vermont Flowers for all the women and flowers girl in the wedding.

The hosts here include a very college as it is. Most students, Mary Annelle Carrigan and Mia is Ann Adams, were mothers and could of been, respectively.

Mason's last name was his brother Sam and Tony Williams, a good friend and fellow member in the Southwestern Gay-Organi-Brotherhood.

Below' across, Hilda and Yara Rubin, and this or her were both inside. Gussman is included longshore (read, Nancy Lerner of the Journal, Joseph P. and Bill Rubin).

Casella, red and gold upstems were the bride's colors. Judy Rodea, Bill & Algillero, Orlan Munoz, and the groom's mother

Minerals, on the other hand, supported Britain's endeavor, accompanying her to conferences and wars.

The reception was held at the YMAA Function Rooms. The usual mix of members of house and members of associations.

For the traditional Irish dance of morris, Nathan brothers Drew and Fredy played the piano and sang "An Aftair in November," their favorite holiday song.

The joyous event was recorded and documented by professional wedding photographers Chris Fisher and his team.

Will Fil-Am Cheryl Burke win at the Emmys?

LOS ANGELES—Fil-Am Cheryl Burke will be back for the new season of ABC's reality hit show "Dancing with the Stars," which begins on Sept. 12.

Drew Ludney and Cheryl were last season's champions. Cheryl's choreography of her competition numbers with the former 16 Degrees performer and younger brother of Rob Lachey was a big factor in her last season's victory. The Fil-Am professional dancer is winning this season's Emmy Awards because she was named twice to the choreography category for the numbers she created and danced with Drew, "Save a Horse, Ride a Cowboy" and "Twins."

Cheryl is also the only woman to win the Emmy Award for Best Choreography in the 2008 Emmys.

Cheryl will once again be paired by Gregg Kall. Cheryl's partner is her best friend, Drew Ludney, who is probably more devoted than her daughter.

In season 7 of "Dancing with the Stars," Cheryl will be paired with her husband, Drew Ludney. The two are already used to work, creating several hits on the

Other competing dancing "stars" are: actress (Katie Couric), husband of her former co-star, actor (Lance Reddick), TV talk show host (Jerry Springer) and former (Lance Reddick), actor (Vince A. Have it ALL

The Philippines: an oil-rich country.

Forget the Middle East. Our country is abundant in oil. Virgin Coconut Oil. Thanks to Filipino ingenuity, VCO is now in demand worldwide. Because it is immensely rich in lauric acid. One of the building blocks of the immune system. (Also found in mother's milk.) Splash proudly mixes and supports this home-grown success story. By continually innovating new products for adults and some children. It goes to show good things happen when we use our intellect.
